

The Professional Institute of Pipeline Engineers

FORMALLY launched in 2007, the Professional Institute of Pipeline Engineers – PIPE – has been formed with a number of aims (see right), the most important of which are to promote the importance of maintaining and improving the standards of pipeline engineering for all types of pipeline, both on- and offshore, and to acknowledge and promote the status of those involved with their design, construction, operation, and maintenance.

Membership is open (by payment of an annual subscription) to all who have EITHER two years' post-qualification experience of pipeline engineering, attested to by a senior representative of their current employer, OR five years' certified experience for those without formal engineering qualifications.

Among the benefits of membership will be a formal certificate of membership, inclusion in the PIPE's web-based List of Pipeline Professionals (also published in hard-copy format annually), and a special rate for subscription to the quarterly Journal of Pipeline Engineering, published jointly by Clarion Technical Publishers of Houston, USA, and Scientific Surveys Ltd of the UK.

To receive further details, please contact the PIPE secretariat (see right), or visit

AMONG THE AIMS of the PIPE are:

- To promote the highest possible standards of integrity and safety
- To establish best practice in the minimization of environmental impact from pipelines of all types
- To co-ordinate and unify technical aspects of the pipeline industry
- To provide continuing professional development
- To provide a forum for discussion of all the issues concerned with pipeline engineering and integrity
- To provide a network of pipeline professionals
- To create and maintain a professional qualification for pipeline engineers which reflects their personal experience and status

THE MEMBERS of the PIPE's founding Board include:
